II. READING: (2.5pts)

PART 1. Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 9 to 13.

Bill Gates' resume from the 1970s

The co-founder of Microsoft, Bill Gates, doesn't need a new job. However, he still has his old resume ready! Gates shared his old resume on LinkedIn recently. He wrote that people today who have attended some college have a better resume than he did 48 years ago.

Although he says that, we can see that Gates was a student at Harvard University at that time. He also had experience with many types of computers and programming languages from that time period. Better than most people today!

He also helped lead a project at his high school that earned him more than $10,000. Additionally, he had a partnership with Paul Allen, who co-founded Microsoft with Gates, for designing a system to study road and highway traffic.

That is all impressive information, but many people are surprised by the personal data on the resume. He wrote his height, 5-foot-10-inches tall (about 1.78m), and weight, 130 pounds (around 59kg). He also wrote his salary, which was $12,000 USD a year. It was still his first year at university. Gates also wrote that he could work anywhere on his resume. Eventually, Gates and Paul Allen started Microsoft in New Mexico, USA, in 1975 and then moved the company to Washington state near Seattle.

It looks like Gates's resume was typed on a typewriter, which was normal in 1974. It was Gates and others during that period who helped make PCs noted soon after. We can also see his old home address on the resume. It was his parents' house near Seattle which was recently sold for $2.6 million USD.

PART 2. Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 14 to 18.

Different cultures follow their own special customs when a child's baby teeth fall out. In Korea, for example, they have the custom of throwing lost teeth up on the roof of a house. According to tradition, a magpie will come and take the tooth. Later, it will return with a new tooth for the child. In other Asian countries, such as Japan and Vietnam, children follow a similar tradition of throwing their lost teeth onto the roofs of houses.

Birds aren't the only animals thought to take lost teeth. In Mexico and Spain, tradition says a mouse takes a lost tooth and leaves some money. However, in Mongolia, dogs are responsible for taking teeth away. Dogs are highly respected in Mongolian culture and are considered guardian angels of the people. Tradition says that the new tooth will grow good and strong if the baby tooth is fed to a guardian angel. Accordingly, parents in Mongolia will put their child's lost tooth in a piece of meat and feed it to a dog.

The idea of giving lost teeth to an angel or fairy is also a tradition in the West. Many children in Western countries count on the Tooth Fairy to leave money or presents in exchange for a tooth. The exact origins of the Tooth Fairy are a mystery, although the story probably began in England or Ireland centuries ago. In France, the Tooth Fairy leaves a small gift. In the United States, however, the Tooth Fairy usually leaves money. These days, the rate is $1 to $5 per tooth, adding up to a lot of money from the Tooth Fairy!
